

Title IX Resources

Any individual affected by or accused of Sexual Harassment will have equal access to support and counseling services offered through the College. The College encourages any individual who has questions or concerns to seek support of college identified resources. The Title IX Coordinator is available to provide information about the College’s policy and procedure and to provide assistance.

Individuals are encouraged to use all available resources, regardless of when or where the incident occurred.

The College is committed to treating all members of the community with dignity, care, and respect. Any individual affected by Sexual Harassment, whether as a Complainant, Respondent, witness, or third party, will have equal access to support consistent with the individual’s needs and available College resources. This section provides contact information for college resources, resources in Linn and Jefferson City, Missouri community, and national resources.

Prompt intervention can do much to mitigate trauma associated with acts of Sexual Harassment and enhance recovery. Reporting parties are encouraged to utilize appropriate resources, whether or not they report the Sexual Harassment to law enforcement or the College. Any campus community member in need of resources or assistance relating to any of the matters covered by this policy is encouraged to contact one of the on-campus or off-campus resources or reporting contacts listed in this policy.
